PREFACE

The underlying plan of the Universal Trade Code was formed after consultation with the heads of the Code Departments of a number of export and import houses, and then submitted to several hundred firms for criticisms and suggestions. As a result, the Code has been compiled on the following basic principles:

1. The vocabulary covers dictionary words and general commercial phrases, specializing on phrases under such heads as Buy, Freight, Offer, Order, Price, Sell, Ship, etc. It contains also a large number of Ports, Cities and Countries, including the new countries created by the war. Lists of Banks and Bankers, Steamship Lines and Telegraph Companies are likewise included, in addition to large Quantity, Numeral and Money Tables, etc. Commodities are listed in their regular place in the alphabetical arrangement.

2. The code-words consist of five letters each, with a two-letter difference, and are pronounceable. To avoid the frequent and serious errors arising from the transposition of letters in code-words, these have been so constructed that, if two letters of a code-word are accidentally transposed, the resulting form is at once seen to be an error from the fact that it does not appear in the book.

3. The code-words are all provided with consecutive five-figure numerals, running from 00,000 to 99,999. These numerals are especially valuable for use in the Ciphers described on page 1 ff., as well as in connection with private codes.

4. The Code consists of 75,000 words and phrases. 25,000 extra code-words are provided for use in private additions or in supplements for special trades. It is believed that the fact that these groups are all together, and follow the 75,000 groups of the code proper instead of being distributed among them, will be found to be a special convenience.

5. Safe and economical Ciphers that have hitherto belonged to the province of private codes have been included. These are fully explained on page 1, ff.

The code has been compiled under the supervision of Herbert O. Yardley and Charles J. Mendelsohn.

Arrangement. The matter of the Code is arranged in one alphabetical sequence, each word or phrase being accompanied by its five-letter code-word. The code-words are likewise in alphabetical order.

Phrases and sentences are in alphabetical order under the leading word of the phrase or sentence. Short connective or subsidiary phrases, composed mainly of participles, pronouns or auxiliary verbs, such as "if you were not," "and in," "not in," "in which," etc., will be found under the first word of the phrases.

The singular and plural of nouns are regularly listed together. Thus, ACCEPTANCE-s means either Acceptance or Acceptances as the sense requires. The same is true of verbs, ACCEPT-s, for example, meaning either Accept or Accepts. So also ADMIRABLE-bly signifies either Admirable or Admirably, and MAIN-ly-s means Main, Mains or Mainly. — Phrases containing "they," "he," or "it" appear regularly with they, the alternatives "he" and "it" following in parentheses—"they (he) (it)." Similarly "them," "him," and "it" appear as "them (him) (it)," "we" and "I" as "we (I)," "us" and "me" as "us (me)." The context of the message will determine in each case which pronoun is needed.

On the other hand, the practice sometimes followed, of listing the present and past tenses and the present participle of the verb in one phrase, has been avoided, because of the great amount of misunderstanding to which this method has led. In this Code, phrases, for example, whose most important word is "Forward" or "Forwards" will be found under FORWARD-s and there will be other headings for phrases with FORWARDED and with FORWARDING. Negative and interrogative forms of the past tense appear regularly with "did" under the main heading of the verb, e. g., "did not forward," "did you forward." This form was adopted as being more generally suitable than the form with "have."

A dash in a phrase indicates that the phrase is not complete, and that its meaning will be completed by the word or words immediately following in the message. Thus, the dash in the phrase "total —— gallons" will be filled in by a number as the next word of the message, "total —— gallons/1000" signifying "total 1,000 gallons." If there are more than one dash, their meanings will be supplied in order; "in —— lots of —— each/3/100" means "in 3 lots of 100 each."

Words enclosed in parentheses are read or not, as the sense requires. Similarly a dash in parentheses may have its meaning supplied by the following words of the message or may be disregarded. "What are prospects of (—) harvest" may be followed by "wheat," "corn," or some similar word, or may be left as it is if there is no doubt what harvest is referred to.

Code-Words. The code-words are composed of five letters each. These really constitute half-words. In sending messages, two five-letter half-words are joined to make one ten-letter word. aurlo dsogu kesad daohe, for example, should be written aurlodsogu kesaddaohe. It is important not to neglect this procedure in preparing a message for cable or wireless, for otherwise each five-letter word will be charged as a full word. In decoding messages, each ten-letter word is first separated into its five-letter halves, and each half-word is then looked up separately.

Secrecy. It is sometimes desirable to send messages in such a way that they cannot be read by an outsider, even by a person in possession of the Code-book. For this purpose it is necessary for correspondents to agree in advance on some method of systematically changing the code-words. The following methods are offered as suggestions.

1. The message is written with the five-figure code-groups instead of the code-words. The last figure of each five-figure group is then transposed to the front of the group. Thus, if the message is originally 05948 15125 41403 13400 it will become on transposition 80594 51512 34140 01340. The code-words corresponding to the numeral groups thus obtained are then substituted for the numeral groups and the resulting message vibywoerny ikrepafnha is sent in the usual way. The recipient of such a message reverses the process just described. He looks up the code-words as received, takes their numerical value, transposes the first figure of each five-figure group so as to make it the last, and looks up the phrase equivalents of the resulting numeral groups.

2. The message is written in the five-figure groups as in method 1. The first figure of each five-figure group is then changed according to a table previously agreed upon—the following specimen may be varied at will:

Instead of	0	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Send	4	9	5	0	1	8	7	3	6	2

The code-word corresponding to the numeral group thus obtained is then sent. The message just used to illustrate method 1, originally 05948 15125 41403 13400, would become, by method 2, 45948 95125 11403 93400, and the code-words corresponding to these five-figure groups are sent, namely lyotsyxous cmepkysivt. The recipient reverses the process, looking up the numerical value of the code-words received, then finding the first figure of each five-figure group in the bottom line of the substitution table just given and replacing it by the corresponding figure from the top line, and finally looking up the phrase equivalents of the groups thus obtained.

In cases where complete secrecy is not desired, it may still be desirable to disguise a name that is being transmitted. For this purpose the following simple method is offered. Its use must, of course, be agreed on in advance between correspondents, and it can, by agreement, be varied as desired.

Instead of	A	B	C	D	E	F	G	H	I	J	K	L	M	N	O	P	Q	R	S	T	U	V	W	X	Y	Z
Send	o	s	m	w	u	n	b	r	e	l	f	z	d	g	y	h	x	c	v	k	a	q	p	j	i	t

On receipt of the message, the process is reversed; each letter received is found in the bottom line and replaced by the corresponding letter of the top line. Thus SMITH would be sent as vdekr, and lyguv would be read as JONES. In changing the arrangement of the table it is advisable always to represent a vowel by a vowel and a consonant by a consonant.

Errors. If a message is mutilated, it can usually be restored by means of the Mutilation Table which will be found on the inside back cover. The table itself contains further directions.

In case a message is so garbled that it cannot be read with the aid of the Mutilation Table, and the trouble is believed to be due to faulty transmission, the Telegraph Company should be asked for a "Service Message." The message will then be repeated from the office where it was filed. Service Messages are usually not charged for, and take precedence over ordinary messages. It is customary to specify by number the words that cannot be deciphered. If a message is still unintelligible after the receipt of a Service Message, and in any other case where the fault seems to lie with the correspondent and not with the Telegraph Company, the correspondent should be asked to repeat the message in whole or in part. Whenever a message is repeated at the request of the recipient, it should be carefully encoded anew in order to avoid a repetition of the original error.

XXXXX CIPHER

Long use of a cipher of this kind by several Import and Export Houses proves it to be both safe and economical. The user should familiarize himself with the material contained in this section in order to avail himself of it as occasion offers. It is a part of the code and requires no written understanding with your correspondent.

A star (★) before a phrase indicates that the figures to the left of the next half code-word in the message should be read, instead of the word or phrase for which it stands. The use of x's in these phrases is merely a convenient method of showing how these figures should be read. Always replace the x's with the figures opposite the next half code-word appearing in the message.

Example 1: gagaoyqfut=Items 19, 27, and 34.
The 1st half code-word gagao=★Items 1x, item xx, item xx.
The 2nd half code-word yqfut=92734 (figures to the left of yqfut).
The five x's replaced with 92734=Items 19, 27, and 34.

Such starred phrases as ★buy and ship promptly (qnty 2A) (unit 1A) at xx½¢ are to be used with Quantity, Price, Shipment, etc., tables, Pages 4-10.

Example 2: aurriywauf=Buy and ship promptly 1500 bushels at 77½¢.
The 1st half code-word aurri=★buy and ship promptly (qnty 2A) (unit 1A) at xx½¢
The 2nd half code-word ywauf=94577 (figures to the left of ywauf)
94=1500 (see Quantity Table 2A, p. 7)
5=bushels (see Unit Table 1A, p. 10)
77=77½¢ (replacing xx of xx½¢ with 77).

Example 3: absqazumyt=We accept 5000 bales Feb/Mar/Apr/May shipment at price named/quoted.
The 1st half code-word absqa=★We accept (qnty 2A) (unit 1A) (shipt 2) at price named/quoted.
The 2nd half code-word zumyt=99211 (figures to the left of zumyt)
99=5000 (see Quantity Table 2A, p. 7)
2=bales (see Unit Table 1A, p. 10)
11=Feb/Mar/Apr/May shipment (see Shipment Table 2, p. 8).

Example 4: To send a phrase requiring more than 5 figures to express it, such as $99,-923,427.29, the first step is to find a starred phrase under Dollars having 10 x's, namely daczi=★$xx,xxx,xxx.xx. Now replace the 10 x's in order by the figures required. This gives us the two 5-figure groups 99923 42729. We therefore send after the starred group daczi, the two half-words corresponding to 99923 and 42729, namely zytot krico. The recipient of the message will then decode as in the examples given above.

Over 1200 starred phrases will be found distributed under the following words:

Example: For Discount 50, 25, 10, 7½, 5 and 2½ per cent, the discounts are arranged in 3 groups—50/25, 10 and 7½/5 and 2½/. 50 is represented by 9 of the 1 figure table; 25, 10 and 7½ by 45 of the 2 figure table, and 5 and 2½ by 10 of the 2 figure table. This gives the 5-figure group 9-45-10 which is sent as yvvla preceded by cuvro, the starred group signifying ★(disc 1) (disc 2) (disc 2).

10-FIGURE CIPHER

Like the xxxxx Cipher described on page 1, ciphers of this type have been used with entire satisfaction. The use of this section will be found especially economical when referring to cables, letters, invoices, orders, or samples.

For example, in one code-word you can refer to any cable from No. 1 to No. 99; any word or group of words, from word No. 1 to No. 43, in any cable, from No. 1 to No. 99; and use any one of 1000 common words and phrases. The user should begin a new cable series after reaching Cable No. 99, and should be more or less familiar with the words and phrases comprised in this section in order to use it to the best advantage.

Example 1: 74=indicator (see Table below)
1=referring to your cable (see Table below)
37=No. 37 (see Table below)
07=2nd and 3rd words (see 2-figure Word Table A, p. 12)
005=accept for immediate shipment (see 3-figure Phrase Table, p. 14)
74137 07005=uguvaaydie

Example 2: 74=indicator (see Table below)
8=referring to order (see Table below)
9271=No. 9271 (see Table below)
724=when can you ship (see 3-figure Phrase Table, p. 19)
74892 71724=ujmixtyaar

Note that all code words beginning with 74 are reserved for use with this table. This makes possible the use of this table at any point in a message without using another half word for an indicator.

TELEGRAM NO., DATE, AND PHRASE TABLE

IMPORTANT: This table is not a part of the code, but merely a suggestion. It can be used at the beginning of telegrams only. Before using it correspondents must agree that the figures to the left of the first five-letter code-word of each message will always be read from this table. They must also agree that a new series of cable numbers will be started after reaching 99. That is, after message No. 99 the next one will be No. 1.

5-fig. phrase: Tel. No. †xx, date xx	0=(blank)	[& incl xth folg wrd
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	1=(rfg. to) your tel. No. xx;	repeat word No. xx to
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	2=(rfg. to) our tel. No. xx	(†phrase 3)
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	3=(rfg. to) your tel. No. xx	(phrase 3)
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	4=(rfg. to) our letter No. xxxx	(phrase 1A)
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	5=(rfg. to) our letter No. xxxx	(phrase 1B)
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	6=(rfg. to) your letter No. xxxx	(phrase 1A)
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	7=(rfg. to) your letter No. xxxx	(phrase 1B)
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	8=(rfg. to) invoice No. xxxxx
10-fig. phrase: Tel. No. xx, date xx	9=(rfg. to) order No. xxxx, item No. x

Example: ikueziznum=telegram No. 34, 17th. Referring to your telegram No. 38; sell at best possible price.

The 1st half code-word ikuez=34173 (=figures to left of ikuez)

34=Telegram No. 34

17=17th (current month)

3=rfg to your tel. No. xx (phrase 3)

The 2nd half code-word iznum=38691 (=figures to left of iznum)

38=Telegram No. 38 (replacing xx by 38)

691=Sell at best possible price (see 3-figure Phrase Table, p. 19)

It is unusual for a five-letter code-word to be mutilated in more than one letter. When such a mutilation occurs, it is apparent from the fact that the resulting code-word is not found in the book. To find the correct word, this table is used.

Example: cofed has appeared in a message and is not found in the book. The error may be in any one of the five letters; and by changing these, one at a time, five possibilities for the correct word will be found.

1. Assuming the 1st letter c to be wrong, ed is found in the 3rd section, and the horizontal line followed to the left until f is reached in the 2nd section. The vertical line is then followed upward into the 1st section where xo is found to be the only combination with o as a 2nd letter, giving the possibility xofed.

2. Assuming the 2nd letter o to be wrong, the procedure is as in 1, except that a combination is now sought in the 1st section with c as its initial letter and cf is the only one found, giving the possibility cffed (discarded, because not in the code).

3. Assuming the 3rd letter to be wrong, ed is found in the 3rd section and co in the 1st section as before. Their lines are followed to their intersection in section 2, where b is found, giving the possibility cobed.

4 and 5. The easiest way to find possibilities for the 4th and 5th letters is to look up cof in the book, where the possibilities are found to be cofem and cofid.

Look in the code book for the meaning of each of the FIVE possibilities, and select the one that fits the context. If the selection is doubtful, the adjacent letters of cofed are transposed, giving the FOUR possibilities ocfed cfoed coefd cofde. If the correct reading is still in doubt, ask for a repetition.
